

WORKSHOP

The working groups are invited to discuss the main arguments for and against the applicability of the Charter in the two following examples, which will later be subject to an open discussion in the plenary.

Case 1.- Penalty imposed for failure to comply with an obligation established in a Directive. This Directive leaves the Member States a margin of discretion for determining the appropriate penalties in order to ensure compliance with the said obligation.

Case 2.- National rules related to the appointment and removal of judges.
